

TACKLING RADICALISATION IN BRUSSELS EDUCATION

Public guest lecture by Mr. Erik Van Den Berghe

The Benzine Approach

Tuesday October 24th, 2017

13:00 – 16:00

Vrije Universiteit Brussel
Building D, room D.2.01

Several educational experts in Brussels are currently conceiving innovative and practical approaches to prevent radicalisation among high school students.

One of the new methodologies which is currently being tested has been created by Erik Van Den Berghe (director of Atheneum Anderlecht). His techniques are inspired by the writings of Rachid Benzine, a well-known French-Moroccan author of popular books on Islam.

Organisation

The Alviella Institute is an institute of multidisciplinary academic research and higher education in the field of critical religious studies, located on the campus of the Vrije Universiteit Brussel in Belgium. This event is part of a series of public guest lectures on current topics in Religion & Society.

Entrance is free – registration is not required.

For more information, feel free to contact us by e-mail at info@alviella.org.